Critics of "Social Credit."

"With the Provincial elections drawing near it looks as tho Alberta is in danger of coming under mob rule," says a writer in The Edson-Jasper Signal of April 11, 1935. "With four, and possibly five parties, seeking election at the polls and all of them with a mixture of plans calculated to get us out of the mess we are in, Albertans will be lucky if they get a Provincial Government on a par with a village council.

"The Aberhart Party are the favorites in the betting, and with the platform they endorsed at Calgary it is little wonder. Non-negotiable certificates (whatever they are) giving every man and woman in the Province $25 per month; interest free loans to farmers, the debts to be cancelled if the farmer has a crop failure. No wonder the farmers are falling over each other to get in on a party that is so extravagant with its promises. What is going to happen when it is discovered that it can't be done Mr Aberhart doesn't seem to be worrying about. He is an expert shifter and his showmanship, which has stood him in good stead, will very likely pull him thru again."

LUMBER TRUCKS RUIN THE JASPER HIGHWAY.

Following a survey on Friday of the condition of the gravelled part of Jasper highway, a ban was issued by the Dept. of Public Works, forbidding busses and trucks from using this sector; the ban to go into force Friday mid night. About the time the ban went into effect, a snowfall accompanied by a high wind which formed numerous drifts, caused a stricter enforcement of the ban than had been intended by the highway commissioner. On Saturday morning local motor parties whose business causes them to head for the City at an early hour found their progress stopped before they had gone halfway.

Similarly, motorists from the City heading west found drifts their cars could not negotiate shortly after leaving the City limits.

Apart from the inconvenience caused by the snowdrifts, the ban on trucks was not enforced any too soon, as was apparent from the "impressions" the heavily-laden lumber trucks from the western sawmills were making on the gravel. A truck from one of these mills which came thru on Friday is said to have been followed to its destination, and when its load of green lumber was measured, it was computed the total weight was upwards of 16 tons.

The regulating of this particular lumber traffic in the Spring fartner up the road west would result in the lighter conveyances not being penalised because of the lumber-carrying vehicles.

You And Your Country

Throughout the length and breadth of this Dominion, at public gatherings of every description, banquets, Canadian Club, Service clubs, Board of Trade meetings, political gatherings, school assemblies, etc., men and women lustily sing "O Canada, we stand on guard for thee," while to the south across the line of the 49th parallel our neighbors sing "My country 'tis of thee." In Canada, on July 1st we proudly celebrate the uniting of the several Provinces into one confederation thus creating this young nation, while on July 4th our American cousins rejoice in commemorating the obtaining of their independence.

Both countries to-day, in common with the rest of the world, are facing grave difficulties,—difficulties of an economic character resulting from the Great War and the insane wave of narrow economic nationalism which has since swept over the nations, leading them to think of "my country" only and utterly regardless of the fact,—which should never have been lost sight of,—that in this modern world no country can think only of and live unto itself alone.

Now, because these policies of national self-sufficiency, of economic isolation, have failed to work,—on the contrary, have resulted in a stagnation of world trade and loss to all nations and peoples,—and unemployment on a gigantic scale with all its attendant losses and sufferings for millions of people prevail, men and women everywhere are no longer thinking in terms of their country, but are thinking solely of themselves.

As the direct outcome of their personal difficulties, and this thinking of themselves instead of their fellowmen, their community and their country,—in a word, narrow nationalism developed to its ultimate and inevitable end,—men and women are now demanding that, instead of standing on guard for their country, the country should do everything for them as individuals. Wrong thinking has brought many people to entertain the idea that, instead of them owing any duty or obligations to their country, the country owes everything to them, and if the country will not or cannot supply all their needs and desires, then they are prepared to destroy their country.

All governments the world over are now being asked to do the impossible, because people have forgotten that governments are, after all, but the people themselves acting in a corporate capacity. So it is that, as individuals, people are demanding that their governments shall do for them, and assume burdens and responsibilities on their behalf, which are too great and heavy for the people as a whole to assume and carry, because whatever a government does the people must pay for.

There is a crying need for a reconstruction in our thinking in these trying times; it is absolutely necessary that as a people we give much more thought to fundamentals and less to the incidentals of life.

One of these fundamentals is that no person should expect or ask a government to do anything for him that he can possibly do for himself. We create governments not to do things for us that we can and ought to do ourselves as individuals, but only to do those things that single-handed we cannot do, but collectively we can do. What we can do ourselves, we ought to do and must do because we can do it better, more economically and more efficiently, and more to our satisfaction, than any government can possibly do.

A second fundamental is that in order that those things we must rely on governments to do for us in our community or national life can be done we, as individuals, must supply with means through taxation to enable the government to act. Therefore, one of the first efforts of all people should be to pay their taxes and pay them as promptly as possible. Unfortunately, a habit of mind has developed to an alarming extent that the payment of taxes is the last thing about which an individual should concern himself or herself. Many people are prepared to pay any and every other obligation before their obligations to governments; indeed, many go ahead gratifying their desires and wishes with money which actually does not belong to them, but is rightfully the property of the State,—that is, the property of all the people to be used for the benefit not of one individual but of the community and nation. So long as this idea prevails, and is acted upon, governments cannot do what they are created to do, are expected to do, and would do if they had the means where with to do it.

Within recent years thousands of people, lacking employment, have received hundreds, and some families over a period of years, thousands of dollars in relief payments to provide them with the necessities of life which in more normal times they provided for themselves out of wages earned. But if they are asked to do a few days or weeks work now to be credited against the advances made to them during these years, many of these people refuse to make payment through the rendering of the service asked of them. Yet they have already been paid for such work at a rate which actually totals hundreds of dollars a week for any work they might now do.

Are they giving a thought to their country now, or only thinking of themselves? Are they helping their governments to continue to help them, or are they weakening their governments in the efforts being put forth in their behalf.

What is your attitude to your country?

Little Journeys In Science

THE STRUGGLE TO LIVE

(By Gordon H. Guest, M.A.)

Every plant and animal is exposed to unfavorable conditions, and the organism must successfully contend with these conditions in order to remain alive. No two plants or parts of plants are exposed to exactly the same living conditions and a plant meets its particular conditions either by dying, or by adapting itself to them.

The tree withstands the cold by stopping its active growth, hardening its tissues and dropping its leaves. Many herbaceous or soft-stemmed plants meet the cold by dying to the ground and withdrawing all life into the root parts. Some plants combat the cold by dying outright, and providing abundance of seeds to perpetuate the kind next season.

Plants adapt themselves to light by growing towards it; or by hanging their leaves in such a position that they catch the light. In less sunny places they increase their leaf surface, or greatly lengthen their stems so as to overtop their fellows, as do trees and vines.

The struggle for existence and adaptation to conditions are among the most significant facts in nature. The sum of all the conditions in which a plant or an animal is placed is called environment. Environment comprises the conditions of climate, soil, moisture, exposure to light, relation to food supply and contention with other plants or animals. The organism either adapts itself to its environment or else it weakens and dies.

The plants that most perfectly meet the conditions in which they are placed are able to persist, and they perpetuate themselves. Their offspring usually inherit some of the characteristics which enabled them successfully to meet the battle of life, and the fit, that is those best adapted to their conditions, tend to survive.

Adaptation to conditions depends on the fact of variation. If plants were perfectly invariable, that is, all exactly alike, they could not meet new conditions. Conditions are necessarily new for every organism and it is impossible to picture a perfectly inflexible and stable succession of plants or animals.

Man has modified plants and animals for his use. All our common domestic animals are very unlike their original ancestors, and our common and long-cultivated plants have varied from their original forms.

By selecting seeds from a plant that pleases him, the plant breeder may, under given conditions, produce numbers of plants more or less as he desires them. From the best of these, he may again choose; and so on until the race becomes greatly improved. This process of continuously choosing the most suitable plants is known as selection. A somewhat similar process goes on in wild nature, and it is then known as natural selection.

Manitoba Government Authorizes Large Sum For Hydro Extension

The third session of the 19th Manitoba legislature has prorogued, Lieutenant-Governor W. J. Tupper giving royal assent to 56 bills passed during the last few days of the session.

Among bills given royal assent were money measures providing for total expenditures of $14,083,000 during the next fiscal year, and authorization for a capital outlay for Manitoba hydro extensions over a large area.

Enabling legislation making Manitoba the first province in the Dominion to take steps to provide pensions for blind persons also was approved.

Chinese Pirates

Vessels Along Coast Of China To Be Armed To Repel Attacks

Investigation following the pirating of the steamer Tungchow, attacked early in the year while she was carrying 75 mission school children, including some Canadians, from Shanghai to Chefoo has convinced the China Navigation Company that if piracy is to be stamped out along the China coasts, passenger ships must be protected by more guards who are "quick on the draw."

It was indicated the heavy pistols used by the Russian guards on the Tungchow were too unwieldly to be drawn quickly. The British-owned company has now announced the guards on its vessels will be increased 50 per cent. and be supplied with weapons which can be brought into action promptly.

Why Your Head Aches

Too Much Air In Ventricles According To Science

Does your head ache? Then there's too much air in your ventricles—tiny little spaces within the brain connected to the spinal canal.

Science has ascertained, Dr. Frederick Tilney told the New York Academy of Medicine that headaches are apt to occur when air gets into the third and lateral of these little spaces.

Hyper-sensitive persons may derive a headache from consuming milk or eggs, sugar and other foods, Dr. Alexander Lambert told the symposium. Excessive smoking may bring pain to another. Some persons get a headache from coffee; others may use coffee to cure the same ill.

He: "May I have some stationery?"

Clerk (haughtily): "Are you a guest of the hotel?"

He: "Goodness, no! I'm paying two guineas a day."

Clever Reporters

The versatility of ship reporters is noted wherever newspapers are published. They swarmed all over a vessel entering New York harbor when they learned a "Barbara Hutton" was aboard. Were they disappointed when they learned she was a Canadian girl and not the five and ten princess? Not a bit. They wrote a story about the "comedy of errors."

AT 62—IN BED WITH RHEUMATISM

At 65—Working Again

Why worry about rheumatism? This old fellow had it almost as bad as it could be. But he just found the right remedy, stuck to it, and now he's working again—at 65 years of age.

Let him tell you all about it:—"For two years and a half," he writes, "I have suffered from rheumatism. For eighteen months I could not turn over in bed, nor help myself in any way. My legs and feet were swollen, and I could not sleep or get any rest until I started taking Kruschen Salts. After taking one bottle, I went about on two canes. I kept on taking it, as I found the pains were leaving me. I have taken six bottles, and now I have started work again. I am 65 years of age, and everybody that knows me says I am a wonder to get on, after what I was."—J.B.

Do you realise what causes rheumatism? Nothing but sharp-edged uric acid crystals which form as the result of sluggish eliminating organs. Kruschen Salts can always be counted upon to clear those painful crystals from the system.

When hanging pictures remember that the centre of the picture should be on the level with the eyes. If you are unusually tall, this rule does not hold good.

Experiments have showed that sweet corn loses its sweetness six times as fast kept at 86 degrees Fahrenheit as at 32.

Dominion Botanist Makes Plea For Botanical Gardens To Study Wealth Of Plant Life In Canada

Canada's need for botanical gardens in which to assemble and to study her great wealth of plant resources as well as plant wealth from other parts of the globe, was dicussed recently by Dr. H. T. Gussow, Dominion botanist, in lecture theatre B, University of Manitoba. This need was first voiced in February, 1886, by the late Dr. William Saunders, who said: "It has long been a reflection on Canadian taste and progress that we have not botanical gardens in the Dominion. In Australia and India are several such gardens, supported by the government. Botanic gardens have also long been established in Ceylon, the Mauritius, Jamaica and several others of the West Indies. Canada is indeed the only important British colony where such an institution is wanting." In 1935 it is still wanting, but urgently needed, it was shown by Dr. Gussow.

Briefly defined by Dr. Gussow, a botanical garden serves as a centre for all branches of the study of plants, and forters, insofar as possible, the practical application of the knowledge obtained by its workers, to economic, med'cal and industrial problems. It aims at making representation of as many families of plants as possible or of characteristics, orders and biologically interesting species. It is a living museum, and a place for rest and reflection. It is not a sports ground, nor an amusement park, though its beauties may delight the eyes and stimulate aesthetic and intellectual life, as does an art gallery or a museum.

The drawing power of botanical gardens is indicated by a reference to Kew botanical gardens—the world's most famous sample of this type of garden, in an annual attendance of 2,000,000 persons, many of whom are scientists and students from all parts of the world. Occupying 300 acres and equipped with a herbarium of two million specimens of plants and a library, Kew gardens serve all the world.

Paintings May Be Valuable

Believed To Be Work Of Great Venetian Artist

A worn, discolored canvas which its owners believe is a famous "lost" Titian Madonna, and two other paintings supposedly by the great Venetian painter have been taken to New York for expert opinion.

The paintings are the property of Henry Cini, of Stafford Springs, Conn., who is sure that they are not only genuine Titians but worth $1,500,000, too.

The paintings were taken to Mrs. Robert H. Grimes, at a Park avenue hotel. Several experts who have seen them have pronounced them "very valuable" and expressed the opinion that at least the Madonna is a real Titian, Mrs. Grimes said.

The "lost" Titian Madonna has been the despair of connoisseurs for many years.

The most elaborate of the Cini paintings shows a Madonna in faded rose and blue draperies holding a standing Christ Child while another celestial infant kisses the foot of the first one.

Another depicts St. Joseph holding the Infant Christ in his arms while the baby waves his staff. The third painting is of a guardian angel with one arm thrown around a smaller angel and the other arm outspread toward a bevy of cherubim. The canvas of the Madonna has some large holes, the St. Joseph smaller tears, while that of the guardian angel is almost ragged with age.

GARDENING

Gordon L. Smith

Early Stuff

With May almost here, it should be fairly safe to try a few rows of those vegetables which are not usually sown until later. If frost does come along, there is a small loss as the ground can be used over again, whereas if the stuff pulls through, there is the satisfaction of having from one's own garden vegetables unusually early. Beans, potatoes, corn, tomatoes and a few of the other tender and semi-tender vegetables can be treated in this way. With hardy sorts like spinach, radish and lettuce, one can make the first sowings just as soon as the ground is fit to work. Frost may hold them back but it will not hurt them. Handle the end of the planting season in the same way, that is make a sowing or two after the usual time for planting so that there will be stuff coming along weeks after the main crop has been picked.

Gardening With Rocks

A few years ago a steep bank at the end of the lawn was regarded as a distinct handicap. Grass and ordinary flowers could not survive spring downpours. About the only solution was large trees and in front of these a screen of shrubbery or vines to hide the raw earth. Nowadays, people want such banks to create a rock garden and often where no bank exists, one is raised by artificial and expensive means. This is not to be confused with the old stiff and rather unsightly rockery. In the kind advocated here, boulders are set into the side of the hill, embedded so deep that frost will not seriously disturb them, and also in such a way that the soil between will lead back into the main bank. Between the rocks a miniature Rocky Mountain range is created with gulleys, alpine meadows, crags and steep canyons. Seed catalogues usually list alpine rock garden plants separately. It is most important to secure seeds and plants suitable to Canadian conditions and it is also advisable to get special literature on the subject, or visit a neighboring rock garden, before attempting too elaborate a layout.

Use The Catalogue

A good seed catalogue is indispensable. Height of the flowers, times of blooming, whether they are suitable for such special purposes as edging, screening, cutting and fragrance are all mentioned and are vital facts in laying out a satisfactory garden. In the vegetable line the catalogue continues this useful service by listing different varieties under the heading of early, late and medium, so that a succession of vegetables is possible right through the season. With unusual sorts, special directions are given in regard to care and preparation for the table.

Modelled After Mounties

Newfoundland May Soon Have New "Red Coat" Force

A force of rangers modelled after the Royal Canadian Mounted Police will be formed by the Newfoundland commission government as soon as approval is given by the Dominions office in London.

Consisting of 52 men at the start, the force will set up 18 posts on the island and five in Labrador, and for some time to come they will have to go through the pioneer work carried on in Canada by the Royal Northwest Mounted Police before the larger Canadian force was organized.

A chief ranger, one inspector, seven sergeants, six corporals and 37 rangers will be assigned to the task of patrolling Newfoundland, outside the Avalon Peninsula, and the great little known hinterland.

Aeroplanes, automobiles, motor boats, horses and dog teams will be their "mounts" as they carry on not only police work but "administrative activities in connection with customs, relief and protection of forests and game."

Would Amend Criminal Code

Proposal To Prohibit Passing Of Death Sentence On Women

A proposal amendment to the criminal code which would prohibit the passing of a death sentence on any female person was filed with the clerk of the House of Commons by T. L. Church (Cons., Toronto East), the Toronto Globe says.

"Sentence of death shall not be passed on any female person under the provisions of this act," the Globe says the amendment reads. It also provides, says the Globe story, that "on a trial by jury of a female person under any section of this act, one-third of the jurors chosen to try the issue shall be females, duly qualified on the same basis as male jurors."

Superstition In China

Laborers Reported To Have Made Human Sacrifices To Spirits

Superstitions which have persisted for centuries among South China farmers caused an enraged band to murder 16 railroad workers and kidnap 43 others. The crime followed fantastic reports that laborers had made human sacrifices of local residents to assuage the spirits who dwell underground, and to insure propitious weather for their work.

The fate of the 43 abducted workers is still unknown and fears have been expressed for their lives.

Reports were current recently in the Laiyang district, southwest of Honan, that railroad construction workers on the line between Canton and Hankow, near Chiouktuoan, had killed several of the inhabitants in order to offer their blood as a sacrifice to the underground spirits.

World's Most Accurate Clocks

Exhibits In Berlin Operated By Vibrations Of Quartz Crystal

Declared to be the four most accurate clocks in the world, novel time-piece are being exhibited by the Reichs Institute for Physics in Berlin, where they were made. They are operated by the vibrations of a quartz crystal, and are said to deviate from the right time only 0.002 seconds in six months. The crystal is hung in a vacuum glass tube which is placed inside a box surrounded by a second box. The walls of both boxes are composed of copper tubes, air, aluminum and feathers, which keep the temperature within unchanged. An electric current is sent through the crystal which vibrates 60,000 times a second, and these vibrations influence an alternating current which keeps the clock going.

"The well-being of a people is like a tree; agriculture is its root, manufacture and commerce are its branches and life; if the root is injured, the leaves fall, the branches break away and the tree dies."—Shou-nung, Chinese Emperor and inventor of agricultural implements, 2800 B.C.

Stanley Baldwin Sees European Nations Taking The Dangerous Road That May Lead To War

Putting It In Figures

Expert Helps Us To Realize Destructiveness Of Dust Storms

If the reader happens to have wondered idly how much earth was moved in the recent dust storms in the Western States, of which reports have been appearing in press despatches, he might be interested in the estimate made by an expert of Kansas State College.

According to this expert, if a 96 mile line of 1½ ton trucks could be put to work hauling 10 loads each per day, it would take them a year to haul back to Western Kansas the dirt that was blown over to the eastern section of the State. Altogether, he figures, there would be 46,500,000 truckloads to be moved.

Putting the situation in this form helps one to realize the terrible destructiveness of a dust storm. It is not necessary to have very much imagination to understand that a large quantity of good farm land must have been ruined to provide all those millions of truckloads of dust. —Quebec Chronicle-Telegraph.

Russia's Cheap Airplane

Is Only Suitable For Touring And Training Purposes

Russian experts, after long experimentation, announced the development of an aeroplane powered by an ordinary light automobile engine.

The engine is the type manufactured in great quantities by the Gorky motor factory.

The new plane is a two-seater which operates on ordinary auto gasoline. Inasmuch as it attains a speed of only 70 miles an hour its chief value aside from touring, is for training purposes.

The people who think the world is flat are about right just now.

European nations "are not walking the way of peace by those dangerous roads which may lead to war," Stanley Baldwin, lord president of the council, told the assembly of Free Churches of England and Wales.

Envisioning what a satirist of the 21st century might write of this age, he said:

"War left the constitutions of the great powers damaged and the convalescence was protracted and checkered. There were frequent setbacks of fever and temperatures rose above normal, sometimes to dangerous heights, and there were anxious moments when it looked as though the whole trouble would break out and infect all victims with the plague of 1914.

"Drugs and plasters were administered at Paris and Locarno. The patients were still alive but none could be said ot be enjoying normal, robust health. No one was willing to undergo the major operation of disarmament.

"One remedy proved worse than a disease and spread like wildfire—economic nationalism. Some even tried a drastic medicine called dictatorship and a walk through Europe was like walking through the wards of a mental hospital. Each was filled with fear for the safety of its own particular brand of civilization."

In what was taken as a direct reference to Adolf Hitler's recent "air raid rehearsal" in Berlin, Baldwin said "we are not a people who will take with any pride or enthusiasm to the wearing of gas masks. Whether we have to wear them or not we will regard them as a monstrous and tragic necessity, born of the prostitution of science to the service of barbarism."

He charged Germany regarded the League of Nation as "a pawn in the struggle for national power and domination."

The SNAPSHOT GUILD

THE CANDID CAMERA

It is the unusual, "candid" picture that attracts attention.

"Candid photography." What is it? Just this. It is one of the most fascinating branches of amateur photography and furthermore is fast becoming one of the most popular sports with those who wish to glorify their snapshot collections with unusual, out-of-the-ordinary type of pictures.

For excitement, candid photography is a first cousin to big game hunting or deep-sea fishing but you need not go to the wilds of the Congo nor off the coast of Florida to stalk your quarry. You will find plenty of material to shoot right in your old home town.

You may still say, "Well, what is this candid photography?" Candid photography is nothing more nor less than taking pictures of people when they are unaware that they are about to be "shot" so, therefore, you catch them in natural, unposed positions with natural expressions. It might be called "intimate" photography—informal snapshots.

The essence of candid photography is action. Get pictures of people doing things. Such pictures should be taken as close to the subject as possible, for we are usually featuring people in this type of photography and they should be predominating in the picture.

When we speak of snapping people in "action" or "doing something" it does not necessarily mean that the person should be actually on person asleep may make a great candid camera picture. He is doing something.

Don't think for one minute that the move. An unusual picture of a candid photography means that you go around just shooting in a hit-and-miss fashion. Any six-year-old child can do that. If you want to really enjoy the thrills that come with candid photography you will want to give it considerable thought.

The modern miniature camera has been the leading factor in the development and popularity of candid photography. First of all, its size makes it less conspicuous than the camera using a 3¼ x 4¼ or larger film. It's ready for action on a moment's notice, for with the majority of makes the pressing of a button opens the camera ready for quick focusing.

Where, when and how you take your candid snapshots depends almost entirely on your equipment. If you are to be a real dyed-in-the-wool candid snapshooter you will shoot under conditions "as is" and not as you make them.

Discovers Heart Disease Drug

Chinese Doctor Helps Isolate "Thevetin" A New Stimulant

From a poisonous nut, which has killed thousands of persons, medical science has isolated a new drug more effective than digitalis in the treatment of heart disease.

This announcement was made at Toronto by Dr. Albert S. Hyman, director of the Witkin Foundation of Beth Israel Hospital, and Dr. K. K. Chen, director of pharmaceutical research of the Lilly Research Laboratories in Indianapolis.

The new drug is called thevetin by its discoverers. It is derived from the nut of the be-still or yellow oleander tree, which grows in Hawaii and India.

Since last September it has been used experimentally with "remarkable success" at Beth Israel Hospital under Dr. Hyman's direction.

Dr. Chen, a brilliant Chinese, famous for his application of science to ancient Chinese remedies first began to investigate the properties of the be-still nut three years ago because of the death of many persons who had eaten it.

He found that it contained a powerful poison, but this poison, properly used, stimulated heart action. It is claimed that thevetin is superior to digitalis because it can be injected into the body, whereas digitalis has to be taken through the mouth.

Cooking Under Water

An Englishman once undertook to cook a pudding at the bottom of the Thames. His friends declared it was impossible. But he proved them wrong by putting the pudding in a tin, then packing the tin into a sack full of lime, and lowering the sack into the river.

After three hours it was drawn up again, and it was found that the heat generated by the slaking of the lime had cooked the pudding.

The sacred African lily is a native of India, not Africa.

The weight of a loaf of bread in Canada is not standardized but it is regulated by municipal by-laws in the various provinces with the exception of Ontario. In Ontario the legal standard weight of a loaf is fixed at 24 and 48 ounces, except that in the case of "small bread" the limit is fixed at 12 ounces.

NEW SUPER-LINER "QUEEN MARY"

The decision of Cunard White Star marine designers to retain the knife-edge bow in the new super-liner "Queen Mary", as against the so-called bulbous bow, has started quite a controversy in shipping circles. All of the large liners built within the last few years feature the bulbous bow. However, it was the knife-edge bow which enabled the Mauretania to keep her laurels as speed-queen of the Atlantic for 22 years after her launching. The "Queen Mary" is expected to enter the trans-Atlantic service in the early summer of 1936.

Birds Cause War Worry

Superstitious People Of Northern Europe Dislike Wax Wings

Because birds known as wax-wings have been seen recently in northern countries of Europe superstitious people are predicting a European war or some other great calamity. For centuries the arrival of wax wings in winter has been regarded over a great part of Europe as a harbinger of war, plague or death. They are said to be the devil's own birds and bear his mark in the shape of a globe of what looks like scarlet sealing wax at the end of the shaft of some of the wing feathers. In recent times the old belief has been strengthened by their being seen during the winter preceding the World War and the Franco-Prussian war.

Livestock Industry Is Very Valuable To Canada

The Dominion bureau of statistics reports the value of farm livestock in Canada for 1934 at $413,837,000 compared with $403,135,000 in 1933, estimated the average value per acre of Canadian farm land and buildings at $23 compared with $24 in 1933 and the combined monthly value of wages and board for the 1934 summer season at $33 for men and $22 for women.

It said the wage and board rate for men was $1 a month more than in 1933 and the same in both years for women.

THE FUTURE LIFE

Golden text: I am the resurrection and the life: he that believeth on me though he die, yet shall he live. John 11:25.

Devotional reading: Psalm 23:1-6.

Explanations And Comments

The Empty Tomb and the Good News, Luke 24:1-12. Early on Sunday morning after the crucifixion of Jesus, Mary Magdalene, and Joanna, and Mary the mother of James, and other women came to the tomb where his body had been laid, to embalm it with spices which they had prepared. To their great amazement, the stone that guarded the entrance to the tomb they found rolled away, and on entering, they found the tomb empty. They fell on their faces in fright when two men suddenly appeared and questioned, "Why seek ye the living among the dead?" Recall Peter's words in his sermon at Pentecost, "It was not possible that he should be holden of death." "He is not here, but is risen." Then the messengers reminded the trembling group that Jesus had foretold his crucifixion and resurrection.

Can you not imagine in what excitement the women hurried off to tell the disciples? But the disciples could not credit their story. The words appeared to them "as idle talk." Peter hastened to the tomb and looked in to behold the linen wrappings there but no body of his Lord and went away overcome with wonder.

The Promise of Christ, John 14:1-3. "Let not your heart be troubled," Jesus bade his sorrowing disciples in his farewell talk with them. It was no mere exhortation to keep up their courage, no comfortable optimism that he bade them hold, for he gave them a reason for untroubled hearts, told them how they could face the dark days ahead, when he added, "Believe in God, believe also in me." In spite of everything they must trust in the goodness of God and in their Lord's loving thought of them.

Separation was at hand, but there would be a reunion. By going away Jesus would make ready for his followers abiding places in His Father's home. The Greek word translated mansions means places of shelter, and the margin of the Revised Version has the translation abiding places. All people have a belief in a future life and this belief, Jesus' words tell us, is true, for otherwise he would have disillusioned the minds of his followers.

Cowhides to the value of $277,547; sheepskins, $134,444; calfskins, $117,441, and "harness leathers", $322,940, were used during 1933 by the Canadian miscellaneous leather goods industry, which includes harness, saddlery, trunks, bags, purses, and belts. Other farm products in the shape of goatskins and pigskins were also used in smaller quantities.

"What's the trouble now, Anne?"

"I made up my usual tried and tested Pickle recipes, but a friend of mine told me to use Bulk Mustard, it was cheaper. I did. It spoiled the lot!"

"That's too bad, Anne. You'll stick to Keen's after this! It is the pure mustard, so you always know just how much to use and you need never waste or spoil anything."

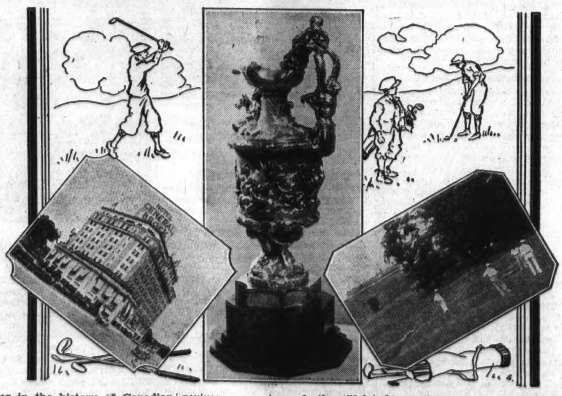
$2,000 GOLD CUP FOR INTERNATIONAL GOLF TOURNAMENT AT FONTHILL, ONTARIO, JULY 11-12-13



Never in the history of Canadian golf has so handsome or valuable a trophy been donated for competition as the Seagram Gold Cup, presented by Seagrams for the six-man-team competition in the General Brook Hotel Open Golf Tournament to be played at the Lookout Point Golf Club, Fonthill, Ontario, on July 11, 12 and 13. The cup stands eighteen inches high, is mounted on an ebony base and is a very fine example of the goldsmith's craftsmanship of several hundred years ago. Moulded from Ormolu metal and plated with eighteen carat gold, it could not be duplicated to-day for less than two thousand dollars. Through Christie's of London, England, this trophy was secured from the estate of Lord Darnley.

The presentation of this heirloom revives memories of the ill-fated Lord Darnley (1545-1567), great grandson of Henry VII, first husband of Mary Queen of Scots, and father of James I. of England. Lord Darnley was considerable of a reprobate and his marriage with Mary was connived by Queen Elizabeth to anger John Knox as it would place their heir, a Catholic, in line for the throne. Lonely for the continental life she had been accustomed to, for Mary was brought up at the court of the Dauphin in France, she brought Rizzio, an Italian musician, to the Scotch court to entertain her. Returning one night in a rage, the jealous Darnley had Rizzio murdered by his followers. The Italian's dead body was then presented to the Queen. A short time later, when he was twenty-one years of age, Lord Darnley was murdered at the instigation, it is believed, of Mary and the Earl of Bothwell, for in the middle of the hunting season, when Darnley and his followers were celebrating at his hunting lodge, it was blown up.

The Cup's magnificent workmanship makes it a most attractive trophy and the winning team returning the lowest combined aggregate score for the seventy-two holes of medal play will keep it for one year. In addition, each member of the team will receive $50.

Entries are contemplated from teams representing Canada, Japan, native-born United States professionals, and foreign-born United States professionals and amateur teams from both the United States and Canada.

FEDERAL PLANS FOR RESCUING DROUTH AREAS

Ottawa.—Plans for rehabilitating the drouth and soil drifting areas of the prairie provinces were laid before the House of Commons by Hon. Robert Weir, minister of agriculture. He was introducing a bill which provides $750,000 this year and $1,000,000 annually for four years following, to put these plans into effect.

The prairie farm rehabilitation advisory committee will be appointed to advise Mr. Weir on plans for rescuing the drouth harassed areas. The minister will go west as soon as parliament adjourns for the Easter recess when the committee will be set up and begin operations.

The program in a general way has been worked out, but the committee will advise on its development. Five rehabilitation areas are planned, three in Saskatchewan and one each in the other provinces. Each of these will include about 36 square miles where methods for saving the lands will be demonstrated.

About 50 large illustration stations, ranging from one to two sections will be provided, where the best farmers in any area will be selected to proceed with illustration work. They will be supplied with proper seeds and allowed certain payments on an acreage basis for carrying out work of reclaiming the land.

Certain abandoned lands will be taken over and efforts made to bring them back into pastures.

Extensive tree planting will be carried out under contract with farmers in two areas, including shelter belts.

Possibly 1,000 small dams will be built on individual farms to conserve water supply. Owners of such farms will be supplied with engineering advice by the department of agriculture as to location of these dams, and in some instances farmers will be assisted to procure materials.

A number of larger dams, holding back spring freshets of streams in ranching areas of the three provinces will be constructed. The lakes thus formed will provide both water supplies for livestock and for irrigation purposes.

In addition there will be township areas where supplies of grass seed will be provided to restore pastures when rains make the sowing of such seed advisable.

A considerable program of seed production is planned which will provide abundance of suitable grass and clover seeds to supply areas as required.

The advisory committee, farmer appointees of which will be from drouth areas, will consist of a chairman appointed by order in council;

One representative each of the Manitoba, Saskatchewan and Alberta grain growing farmers.

One representative of Saskatchewan livestock farmers.

One representative of Alberta range farmers.

One representative of mortgage companies of Canada.

One representative of the Canadian Bankers' Association.

One representative each from the Canadian Pacific Railway Company, Limited, and the Canadian National Railways.

Two representatives from the Dominion department of agriculture; and

One representative of the department of agriculture of each of the provinces of Manitoba, Saskatchewan and Alberta.

Mystery Story

Legendary Gold Find May Bring Gold Seekers To North Area

Edmonton.—District prospectors in the White Court area, 100 miles from Edmonton, are anxiously awaiting the spring breakup to start a search for the legendary gold find of Moostas, ancient Indian who died recently with the secret of the source of his reputed find of a few years ago. Inquiries reaching the district from all parts of Canada as a result of the revival of the mystery story, may bring gold seekers from a distance.

Oppose Plan To Sell Land

Doukhobors Unwilling To Give Up Land They Have Lived On For Many Years

Winnipeg.—Internal disagreement in the Christian Community of Universal Brotherhood appeared following a recent announcement of J. P. Shukin, vice-president of the brotherhood, that 30,000 acres of Doukhobor land in the Saskatchewan districts of Veregin, Kylemore and Kelvington would be sold.

Andrew F. Bloodoff, a member of the brotherhood at Veregin, has declared members of the sect in that district are unwilling to leave the home they have lived in for 30 years.

Learning of this alleged complaint from the Veregin district group, Mr. Shukin arranged an interview with Peter Veregin, president of the brotherhood and sect leader who is serving a two-month term in Headingly jail for having assaulted his interpreter.

Mr. Shukin declared, prior to seeing Veregin, the land would be sold and that "any statements to the contrary made by such people as Bloodoff or other Doukhobors in Saskatchewan should be disregarded."

To Aid Celebration

Band Will Offer Services Free For Jubilee Celebration In Calgary

Calgary.—Assistance of bandsmen in Calgary's celebration of King George's silver jubilee was pledged by E. S. Harris, secretary of the National Musicians of Canada, Calgary Branch, who said members of his organization were willing to give their services gratis in playing the accompaniment of children's singing May 6.

It was feared the celebrations would have to be called off when musicians, members of a union organization with headquarters in the United States, declined to assist unless payment was made for their service. Alderman Dr. W. A. Lincoln said the city could not afford to pay musicians.

Held As German Spy

France Arrest Man Who Frequented High Political Circles

Paris.—Police claimed to have unmasked an important nest of spies in Paris with the arrest of a German, Edward Bernhueber, who they said frequented political circles posing as an apostle of Franco-German rapprochement.

Authorities said they had found on Bernheuber a list of questions asking information on varied military, diplomatic and political subjects which he had asked a French journalist named Armand Avrousart to answer.

Bernheuber, who police alleged was one of the cleverest members of the German intelligence service, was held on a warrant issued by Judge Benon, the magistrate who conducted the original investigations of Mr. and Mrs. Benjamin Bercowitz, naturalized Canadians, and 19 other suspects on spy charges.

A search of Bernhueber's flat, police said, yielded nothing but a curious pencil case containing tear gas. A persuasive and interesting talker, he often frequented high political circles, they said.

Jap Nationals Admitted

Ottawa.—Japanese nationals admitted to Canada during the four years ended with March 31, 1934, totalled 546 of whom 183 were adult men, 195 adult women and 78 children of both sexes. During the same period 164 British nationals of Japanese birth were admitted to the Dominion. The information was contained in a report tabled in the House of Commons.

Germany's sales tax receipts are much greater than a year ago.

Jubilee Medals

Want To Know If Medals Are Available For Sale In Canada

Ottawa.—Minister of Finance E. N. Rhodes promised to inform the House of Commons if medals commemorating King George's silver jubilee would be available for sale in Canada and whether they would be received from the royal mint in England for Canadian distribution.

The finance minister made the promise in a discussion launched by John Vallance (Lib., South Battleford), who told Secretary of State C. H. Cahan he had received a telegram from Lloydminster, Sask., asking if 500 medals could be obtained from the Canadian mint for distribution among school children.

Charles E. Bothwell (Lib., Swift Current) prompted Mr. Rhodes' promise when he asked for information "because the fact is I have written letters giving information to people in my own constituency who have made inquiries." He added: "I hope I have not been misled in the matter."

Making Complete Recovery

Premier Bennett Planning To Sail For England To Attend Jubilee Celebration

Ottawa.—Although Prime Minister R. B. Bennett had not yet left his apartment he was expected to take some outdoor exercise in a day or two for the first time since Feb. 24, when he was taken ill.

Tentative booking has been made for the prime minister on a steamship sailing from New York at the end of this week to take him to the King's Silver Jubilee celebrations in London.

Mr. Bennett has had several conferences with members of the cabinet over the works legislation now being drafted to put many thousands back to work.

Introduction of the works measure is expected before motion is made for the Easter adjournment.

Mr. Bennett is said to be making a complete recovery and only a further breakdown will prevent his heading the party in the forthcoming general election campaign.

WANT PREMIERS TO MEET WITH MAYORS IN EAST

Montreal.—Premiers of all nine Canadian provinces were invited by wire to meet here on April 22 with members of the continuing committee of the Dominion conference of mayors to consider "further decisive steps" in connection with the mayors' claim that the Dominion government should take over complete responsibility for unemployment relief.

The invitation was signed by the entire continuing committee, composed of Mayors Camillien Houde, Montreal; James Simpson, Toronto; G. G. McGeer, Vancouver; John Queen, Winnipeg; George Wenige, London; E. J. Cragg, Halifax, and by Fred Bancroft, Toronto, general secretary.

Mayors Houde, Simpson and Wenige, with Mr. Bancroft, met here to discuss the question, the other mayors being consulted by wire.

The wire to the various premiers read:

"You have received a complete copy of the decisions and proceedings of the Dominion conference of mayors which met in Montreal and Ottawa on March 25 to 28 and you will have noticed that one of our two main demands was that for the very strong reasons therein stated the Dominion government should assume the entire responsibility for unemployment relief.

"We have not so far received any answer from the Dominion government. It is urgently necessary to take further decisive steps. We strongly urge you or your representative on behalf of your government to attend a joint meeting of representatives of provincial governments and our continuing committee, in order to discuss the immediate calling of a joint conference of the provincial and municipal governments of Canada. We propose that this first meeting should be held in Montreal on Monday, April 22."

Following their meeting Mayors Houde, Simpson and Wenige wired their colleagues of the continuing committee that "notwithstanding the appalling situation which was laid before the members of parliament and the cabinet indications have reached us that the government is not yet alive to the existing menace to the peace, order and good government of Canada," through the unemployment relief situation.

The conference between the provincial representatives and the continuing committee would be preparatory, in the mayors' plan, to a conference between all Canadian mayors and provincial representatives with the intention of securing a united decision to lay before Dominion authorities.

The mayors saw such a conference a necessity following the statement of Sir George Perley, acting prime minister, last month to the mayors that unemployment relief matters should be taken to the provinces.

Help Railway Workers

Double Contributions From Heavy Earnings Would "Underdog" Assist

Ottawa.—Railway engineers, conductors and firemen working under certain conditions in a mileage basis that might give them two weeks' pay in one week should make a contribution of 25 cents for "each" week earned to the Dominion unemployment insurance fund, Senator James Murdock told the senate banking and commerce committee.

The former Liberal minister of labor believed the double contribution in such instances would be fair to the "underdog"—the railway sectionman receiving a week's wage for six days' work, and unemployed railwaymen.

Address To King George

Ottawa.—Prime Minister R. B. Bennett has placed on the House of Commons order paper notice of a resolution asking an address be voted to King George congratulating him on completion of the first quarter century of his reign. 2094

"But . . . My God, man! To do that you've got to inform on Peyotl . . . ."

"Well . . . What if I do? What good is Peyotl to anybody?"

"You . . . You can't do it, Sam. You just can't do it."

"Who? Me? I'll show you. I mean to have that girl. We've got our safe full of cash right now. In a week we'll own the Hour-glass and Soda Springs and the mine that old man Kane found. In a year I'll be travellin' with my red-headed wife and you can buy one for yourself. Like it?

Spike did not like it and said so. The risks were too great. But Dustin did not even listen to his objections. He rose suddenly and seized his hat.

"I'm goin' over to the Hour-glass right now," he said.

Spike watched him go and shook his head.

"I wish to God I'd kept clear o' Sam," he muttered. "They got nothin' on me though. It's always been Sam gave the orders about the cattle. It's been Sam tended to the money end of it. Come to think of it, if anything happens maybe I'll prove to be the smarter man. Sam's headin' fer trouble if his foot slips."

But Dustin was heading at that moment for the Hour-glass. He knew that Crewe and Carr with Stone would be delayed in Seco and he wanted to be the first to tell the news to Edith.

She met him as he was dismounting amid a ring og angry men, for the Broken Spur was not loved at the Hour-glass. Dustin stared them down and faced her calmly.

"I came over here to-night as a neighbor should," he said. "I've got some bad news for you. . . ."

"So you came to enjoy telling it . . ." She flung the words at him. "Go on. Tell your news . . . and go."

"All right . . . If you want it like this. But I warn you, you'd better send those men away and see me in private."

She scanned him even-eyed. There was some indefinable thing about him that convinced her that on this occasion at least he was telling the truth.

"Come then," she said shortly. The men stared after them as she led the way into the house and a little murmur arose that Red Thom quieted. The moment they reached the office she turned shortly on him. "Well," she said: "What is it? To what do we owe the honor of this call?"

"Do you know where your father went?" he asked.

"Of course. To meet his partner, Mr. Gerald Keene, who came on the evening train."

"Right. I'll tell you where he is now . . . They all went to the Silver Dollar saloon. Your father, Crewe, that wrangler Stone and the man Keene. They had hot words there of some kind. The lights went out. There was a shot fired. When the lights came on again the man Keene was lyin' over the roulette table shot through the body and they searched everybody. They found a Derringer pistol that had been fired in your father's pocket. He was standin' right by Keene. . . ."

For just a fraction of a second Dustin shrank back from the light in her eyes.

"You . . . You liar. . . ." Scorn ineffable rang in her voice. "To come here and tell me a thing like that . . . You mean to tell me that my . . . my father shot this Mr. Keene?"

"No. . . ." He held up a delaying hand . . . "I mean to tell you that the Sheriff has got evidence that will send your father to the gallows for having shot Gerald Keene. I'm the only man in the world who can prove he didn't . . . Get me now? The first thing they'll search for is a motive. Why should Joe Carr shoot his partner? They'll find the motive in old Peter Vinton's will. The man Keene died a little while ago. You can verify what I say by telephone. Call up Doctor Epps. He's taken the wounded man to his house. By Keene's death, your father gets the other half of the Hour-glass. He owes me more than he can pay. There's the motive. The fact remains that I've told you the truth. The Sheriff has got proof that your father shot his owner partner to get his share of the Hour-glass. . . . That's part of what I've got to tell you. . . ."

She swayed on her feet and her face, once red-and-white turned pale but the light in her eyes never changed.

"Call up Epps in Seco on the phone," he said.

She stepped to the wall-instrument, snatched the receiver and got the number. Dustin could not hear what was said from Seco but he saw her face blanch and her lips quiver. Her free hand grasped at the wall for support.

"Then as I understand you, Doctor, my father is under arrest for the . . . the killing of Gerald Keene . . . Is that right?"

Followed a buzzing again across the wire that her clear voice cut.

"What? . . . You say Mr. Keene died a short time ago . . . ? Oh . . . I see. . . ."

She turned away from the telephone and faced Dustin and her whole demeanor changed. She seemed to have shrunk and lessened but her eyes shone with an indomitable glow.

"He . . . . Doctor Epps says you are correct . . . That my father undoubtedly shot Mr. Keene. He says Mr. Keene died. . . . And . . ."

For the first time she broke down and sank into a chair and buried her face in her hands while her body shook. Dustin came over and stood by her and ventured to lay a hand on her shoulder.

"It may not be quite as bad as you think," he said.

"How? Not as bad as I think . . . I know Daddy never did it. Of course he didn't do it. . . ."

"The Sheriff has evidence that he did," said Dustin. "They've established the motive. They found the man dead across the roulette table. Shot with a big soft-lead bullet from a Derringer pistol They found Carr standing right by him and in his pocket was a Derringer pistol. It had just been fired and the bullet from Keene's body fitted it. Will a jury want more evidence than that? Use your brains."

She could not. They seemed atrophied.

"There's one way out," he said. His eyes sought hers but her gaze wavered and dropped. Some occult sense told her what was coming.

"What would you give," he said, "if a man could be found who could refute all that circumstantial evidence? What price would you be willing to pay to save your father a coroner's inquest, an indictment, a trial and . . . a conviction. That conviction means a hanging."

"You mean . . . To hang some one else . . . ?"

"I mean to hang the really guilty man. Look here. No beating about the bush! I know who shot Keene. I'll come forward and give testimony that will clear your father and hang the guilty man . . . If you will marry me. . . ."

Her eyes stabbed him like a knife.

"You . . . you cur," she said "To bargain over a man's life. I knew what you were. . . ."

"Stick to your tie-rope," he said. "If I forget what I know, your father hangs. . . ."

In less than ten seconds she reconstructed the evidence She knew that Dustin told the truth. The evidence was sufficient for any Frontier jury. Her father would hang.

"I . . . I . . . You mean that if I marry you, you will clear my father?"

"Exactly. You've put it in a nutshell . . . ."

"I . . . I want time. . . ."

"In twenty-four hours the man will have left the country."

"I . . . I can't tell you now . . . I want time. . . ."

"I give you till to-morrow. . . ."

"Can't you be decent just once? There is no question of love in this . . . I hate you . . ."

"What difference does that make? I break any horse in my corral till he answers to my hand. You'll do the same. I want you. That's enough! If I choose to marry the daughter of a cold-blooded murderer who shot his own partner . . ."

The telephone jangled again and she leaped for it.

"Epps again, Miss Edith. Crewe is comin' right out. Stone is staying in for the night." She turned to Dustin.

"Come over to-morrow," she said wearily. "You know of course that I will try to find some way out of this . . . If there is no way . . . I . . . I . . . I'll have to pay the price."

He had to be content with that but he almost slunk to his horse as he walked to the horse-block under the malignant stare of the Hour-glass waddies.

Stone went straight to Jameson's office and stayed there till Jameson stormed back into the place.

"No luck at the Broken Spur," he said. "Peyotl isn't there. And I can't get any trace of old man Kane. Have you telephoned Epps?"

"Listen to me, Jameson. I'm layin' all my cards on the table . . . But one. I'm keepin' an ace buried. Joe Carr never fired that shot. The man who shot Keene had the gun wrapped in this. . . ." He laid before the editor that yellow-and-green bandanna . . . "Look at the shot, holes in it. Smell it. . . ."

Stone fished from his pocket the broken fragments of cigarettes that he had found by the lonely camp-fire up Red Water canon and the single specimen that he had taken from Dustin in the golpe de caballo.

"Check 'em up," he said. "Who do you reckon fired that shot?"

Jameson considered carefully. "Some one who uses peyotl," he said.

"All right. Who's that?"

"I only know one. . . Peyotl Gregg and he ain't to be found at the Broken Spur."

"There's only one other place he can have gone. If he's not at the Broken Spur he must be here in Seco."

"We can probably find him down in the Mexican settlement," said Jameson. "That's the only place he can get his drug. Let's go there."

It took three hours but they finally dug Peyotl up, a drug-soddened wreck from the jacale of Pascual Mendez. He reeked of sotol, that drink that has a special stink of its own, and they slammed him unceremoniously into the rear seat of Jameson's car.

"You question him," said Jameson.

"Where did you get the pistol that you shot that man Keene with?" demanded Stone.

Queer Things At Auction

Only Curio Dealers Bid For Hand Of Witch

A witch's hand was offered at auction in London recently. It was that of Mary Holt, a Pulborough woman, who was hanged for witchcraft. It was not sold. Only curio dealers bid for it. They went up to nearly $20, at which point the hand was bought in by its owner. The same thing happened to a heart pierced with pins, another old Sussex witchcraft charm. One Hallet, who lived at New House, bragged with considerable success, and prospered greatly with the aid of his charms. Examples of his "life-giving" stock-in-trade were on sale. A glass-encased "grotto" called by Hallett a Nativity brought $55.

Steaming Ashes And Nile Mud Hatch Chicks In Egypt

Every year Egypt exports hundreds of millions of eggs to other countries, yet hens with chicks are almost never seen there. The explanation is that eggs are artificially hatched by a system that has not changed in 4,000 years. The eggs lie for a while in steaming ashes, deep down in the hatching pits. Later they are put beneath black cupolas of Nile mud, lying on camel dung and covered with palm leaves. The system is so accurate that attendants can tell to the hour when the chicks will hatch.—Detroit News.

RIDE AND HIKE in ROCKIES

New territory in the Canadian Rockies will be opened this year by the Sky-line Trail Hikers and Trail Riders of the Canadian Rockies, two societies whose members come from all over the world to enjoy these splendid recreations. On foot and on horseback, they set out from the Canadian Pacific Banff Springs Hotel to conquer the mountains —not just to climb them, but to capture their beauty with cameras, to erect friendly, cheerful camps on their heights, and to carry away from their wooded slopes health and pleasant recollections. The official Sky-Line Trail Hike, from the second of August to the fifth, will follow part of the trail taken through the Rockies in 1841 by Sir George Simpson, governor of the Hudson's Bay Company.

It is planned to motor from Banff Springs Hotel to the game warden's cabin on Healy Creek on August 2, hiking to the Canadian Pacific cabin, the Sunshine Camp, the first day. In the second day Simpson Pass will be crossed and the second camp made at one of the Egypt Lakes, near Mummy and Scarab Lake. The third night will be spent at Shadow Lake and the final Pow-Wow will be at Castle Mountain Camp on the Banff-Windermere Road, after which busses will be available for those who wish to go to Banff. The whole distance will be about 38 miles.

The official five-day trip of the Trail Riders is from July 26 to 30 and this year takes in the Red Deer River, former famous hunting ground but now included in the Banff National Park, which limits all hunting to cameras. The trout fishing is excellent and ample time will be set aside for fishermen, while the others in the party will take pleasant side trips. The party will motor about 11 miles from Banff to the crossing of the Cascade where horses will be waiting. The first camp, used for two nights, will be somewhere near Windy Camp. They then ride over Snow Creek Pass to Scotch Cabin on the Red Deer and turn west to the second Camp. The trail will follow the Red Deer to its source, and turn south to Baker Lake and Ptarmigan Lake to a camp in the Ptarmigan Valley. The fifth day's ride is to the Sun Dance Lodge near Lake Louise Station, for the Pow-Wow.

On Wednesday next, April 24th, there will be a sitting of the District Court in the town hall, Stony Plain, with the expectation that Judge J L Crawford will preside. The Parliamentary Show.

(By J. S. Cowper.)

With the legislators making strenuous efforts to prorogue by the 18th, and with a Provincial election to follow soon after, the Government showed its appreciation of the needs of the hour by bringing down two bills to muzzle the press of the province.

One provides penalties of $5000 each on the owner, publisher, editor, and master printer of any newspaper that should print any of the evidence in divorce cases, or cases involving sexual offences. The other is to take away from any newspaper the protection of an apology upon finding it has printed in error news reflecting upon any person.

Tho the Gov't disclaimed that the 2 bills have any connection with the appeal cases in the courts involving 2 of the ex-ministers, the measures were denounced in strong terms by Liberals, Conservatives and Independents alike as an attempt to bulldoze the press of the province and put an end to the freedom which the press enjoys in common with other British countries. For a whole afternoon the battle raged, the Gov't finally consenting to relieve the foreman printer of the $5000 penalty on representations that he is only a hired workman without any discretionary power.

Tho the UFA following loyally supported the efforts of the Ministers to end press freedom in Alberta it is likely that protests will be made in caucus and the bills left on the Order paper without attempts to make them law.

Notes of Sports.

With hockey a thing of the past, baseball and basketball activities should commence within a few weeks. So far as can be ascertained at the present writing, we are to have two ladies' basketball terms in Stony—Walther Leaguers and the S.P. Seniors. Albert Ducholke is to be manager of the W-L Five; while the S. P. Girls are without a mentor at present.

It is likely Walther League will field a men's hoop team this year : but nothing definite has yet been said.

Behind the baseball front things are quiet. W-L will sponsor a team with Ph Enders as manager; but nothing has been said, as yet, regarding a S. P. Senior or Junior club.

But, cheerio ! sport fans ; it is rumored we might have a house league, made up of three softball teams. Sounds good; but still, with 3 local teams, it might mean a lot of war on the softball field at playtime.

—Some discussion has been caused over the difficulty in fixing the date of Easter Sunday, as there appears to be a big switch from the Easter date of 1934. The variations in the dates are caused by the fact the dates are calculated on the moon's phases, being governed by the first full moon after the vernal equinox. In the next thirty years Easter Sunday varies 35 days between March 22 and April 25.
